

Connect TECHNOLOGY

New gear

JENNIFER DUDLEY reveals this week's gadget grab bag.

Sony portable DVD player

$429

FOR a portable cinema, this device is a pretty little thing. The Sony Walkman DVE7000S Portable DVD Player is just 2.8cm thick and weighs less than a kilogram, but it can still deliver impressive vision and sound when you're on the road or having a dispute with the remote-control holder. The unit can play a host of DVD formats, including DivX, on its 17.7cm screen, and with its docking station can deliver 5.1-channel Dolby Digital surround sound. It also comes with a remote control, power and car adaptor, slip case and headphones.

Sony: 1300 137 669
www.sony.com.au

Sudio Halo Bluetooth Speaker

$129

AS cute as a button and shaped like one too, this Bluetooth device is designed to free your hands and ears while using a mobile phone.

The Sudio Halo Bluetooth Speaker is also designed for simplicity, and features just three navigation buttons. Once paired with your mobile phone, audio is broadcast clearly through its speaker, aided by noise suppression and echo-cancellation technology. Voice dialling, call waiting and conference functions also feature, and the unit is capable of 900 hours on standby or 10 hours of talk time.

Sudio: 1300 736 723
www.forcetechnology.com.au