

Desktop Magazine May 2008

Feature Article
Product reviewed by Drew Turney
Circulation: 14,500

Desk top:

Walk on the wireless side

Drew Turney looks at how to escape the tangled web of cables we weave throughout our studios, offices and homes.

 How close are we to a wireless age? Manufacturers have wholeheartedly embraced new standards and given us a head start when it comes to peripherals.

HEADPHONES

Whether you're playing games when you shouldn't be, surfing YouTube or just listening to music while you relax, headphones can be your best friend. Western Australia-based Force Technology distributes a great range of Bluetooth products and one of its proprietary brands, Sudio, has a great Bluetooth headphones model called the Alto. Simply two headphone pads that hook over your ears, they're joined by a single slender cable and are not only extremely comfortable and light but very easy to set up and use. The sound quality is great. RRP $69.80